

The Newberry Library in collaboration with the Burnham Plan Centennial Committee has created "Make Big Plans: Burnham's Vision of an American Metropolis." This exhibit commemorates the Plan of Chicago and emphasizes its relevance to metropolitan development through the 20th century and into the future. Compelling maps, views, and photographs from the plan and other sources will engage broad audiences in the history and implications of Burnham's regional vision. It will be displayed simultaneously at more than 50 libraries throughout the metropolitan region from June until November. Please check with your local library on exhibit dates. The exhibit can also be viewed on line at

"Make Big Plans" is supported in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the William G. McGowan Charitable Fund, Deloitte LLP, and Marsh & McLennan Companies.
