The Newberry Library in collaboration with the Burnham Plan Centennial Committee has created "Make Big Plans: Burnham's Vision of an American Metropolis." This exhibit commemorates the Plan of Chicago and emphasizes its relevance to metropolitan development through the 20th century and into the future. Compelling maps, views, and photographs from the plan and other sources will engage broad audiences in the history and implications of Burnham's regional vision. It will be displayed simultaneously at more than 60 libraries throughout the metropolitan region from June through December. A rich variety of public programs offered by the Newberry Library and local venues will compliment the exhibit. The exhibit can also be viewed on line at http://www.burnhamplan100.org/newberryexhibit/index.shtml

"Make Big Plans" is supported in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the William G. McGowan Charitable Fund, Deloitte LLP, and Marsh & McLennan Companies.
